

"You have to introduce new, or die," says Nir Zuk, from Palo Alto, during the 2011 EMEA Summit NetEvents Press & Analyst

During the main event of the European networking in Europe for the sector and the media, visionary speakers are shaking the media circus that was built around the Cloud.

February 10th, 06:00 GMT

Launched yesterday NetEvents 2011 EMEA Summit Press, Nir Zuk, the entrepreneur and founder of Palo Alto Networks, addressed the audience of journalists and analysts of high technology in the EMEA region on the theme: Thinking only feel safe or safe? The need to accelerate the creative innovation on this side of the law. In a subsequent interview with Bob Walder, research director for the departments Security, Privacy and Risk, Security and Infrastructure at Gartner, Nir Zuk said: "Everyone thought that Nokia was invincible.

http://www.ansa.it/web/notizie/rubriche/economia/bw/2011-02-10\_110618328.html