

DDI sector in need of understanding

By Sean Mitchell, Tuesday, 25th May, 2010

Companies should be adopting new DDI services quicker than they currently are, says solutions provider, Infoblox.

Towards the end of 2009, Gartner recognised the importance of core network services like DNS, DHCP and IPAM in a MarketScope report. It used the term "DDI" to represent this emerging technology category.

Infoblox offers solutions that it says can reduce network expenses and increase network availability by automating key components of infrastructure, including IP address management (IPAM), DNS and DHCP.
