

Wall Street Italia

"You have to introduce new, or die," says Nir Zuk, from Palo Alto, during the Summit NetEve

February 10, 2011 | Time 07:00

Inaugurating yesterday NetEvents 2011 EMEA Summit Press, Nir Zuk, the entrepreneur and founder of Palo Alto Networks has addressed the audience of journalists and analysts of high technology in the EMEA region on the theme: Thinking only feel safe or safe? The need to accelerate the creative innovation on this side of the law. In a subsequent interview with Bob Walder, research director for the departments Security, Privacy and Risk, Security and Infrastructure at Gartner, Nir Zuk said: "Everyone thought that Nokia was invincible. The original text of this announcement in the language of departure is the official version prevails. The translations are provided solely for the convenience of the reader and must defer to the original text, which is the only legally valid.